The Role of A Teacher in Our Lives

There are many worthy and useful professions in the world. One of the most important fields nowadays is education. That's why teachers are respected worldwide. Being a teacher has always been a noble occupation. Teachers of any subject are equally important. They teach us not only one particular subject but a set of rules that can be useful in our future life.

First of all it is a profession for extraverts. A teacher not only tells some facts, he (or she) has to establish a contact with the audience, to get feedback from the pupils. It is a serious emotional strain. But the reward is to see the progress of the students.

Discuss: Name three main qualities of teacher

Good teachers not only educate kids, but inspire them, help to develop their talents, learn critical thinking. So this profession is very important for our society. But it is a tough job.

I believe that a teacher should have a talent, as well as an actor, writer or a doctor. Before you decide on a profession and make it enjoyable, not a punishment for you, you need to listen to the advice of authoritative people, psychologists, good teachers. You need to observe the work from the "inside" and assess your abilities.
